"The Mabel Brady Garvan Collection at Yale"

Francis P. Garvan (1875-1937) belonged to a generation of collectors of American art who collected on a grand scale - thousands of objects in a variety of media and disciplines. His collection of early American silver is still regarded as the finest in existence, and he put together equally impressive groups of furniture, pewter, glass, ceramics, paintings, and prints. He relied on a team of expert advisors in each of these areas and also purchased whole collections assembled by well-known authorities. As his collection grew, Garvan became increasingly interested in its educational value, and he accordingly sought to make his holdings as comprehensive as possible. Beginning in 1930 he donated 10,000 objects from his collection to Yale University for use in teaching as well as for exhibition and loan. The Mabel Brady Garvan Collection remains the core of the distinguished collection of American decorative arts at the Yale University Art Gallery.

RIP & CHARLOTTE NOBLE

Special guests Rip (Robert Noble) and his wife Charlotte will join us. Residents of Lakewood, Rip is the grandson of Francis and Mabel Garvan. He remembers growing up in the 1940's & visiting them while the collection was in their home. He will present a remembrance of his grandparents and their collections.

Sponsored by Dale Hilton in memory of R Robertson Hilton and in honor of Rip & Charlotte Noble
